SUBJECT: FUNDS AVAILABLE UNDER POLICE GRANT

Department of Labor Training and Employment Guidance Letter (TEGL) 23-03, announces the opportunity for workforce investment systems to collaborate with a new four-year demonstration grant that provides funding of $2 million for the Steve Young Memorial Scholarship Program. The scholarship program is administered by the National Fraternal Order of Police Foundation (Foundation) and provides up to $15,000 for job training and other services to spouses of sworn law enforcement officers killed in the line of duty January 2001 through December 2006. A divorced spouse who is the parent or legal guardian of the fallen officer's dependent children under the age of 18 also is eligible. A child under the age of 25 currently enrolled as a full-time undergraduate student, or over the age of 18 and unable to attain self-sufficiency because of a physical or mental disability, may also establish the eligibility of a divorced spouse.

When a potentially eligible spouse has been identified by the Foundation, the local Foundation chapter will contact the appropriate One-Stop Career Center. One-Stop Career Centers may want to assign a specific staff person to act as the single point of contact for Foundation referrals. The Foundation will reimburse One-Stop Career Centers for the costs of their assistance. The TEGL 23-03 includes a prototype memorandum of understanding between the Foundation and a One-Stop Career Center site.
